PARIS, Nov. 13.—The Russian soviets forces have won control of the Isthmus of Perekop, leading to the Crimean peninsula, and the situation of General Wrangel, the anti-Bolshevik commander in the Crimea, is extremely bad, according to dispatches received today by the French foreign ministry. The Allied fleets, it is stated, are preparing to aid in the evacuation of certain districts in the Crimea.

The Bolsheviks have advanced beyond Perekop, the advices show, and have captured 12,000 men, cartridges 18 cannon, one tank, three armored trains and 10,000 shirts and much transportation material.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Sebastopol is being evacuated and British authorities are requisitioning ships in Constantinople to take refugees from that city, says a dispatch from the English capital. Eight thousand persons in Sebastopol seek transportation from the city, says a dispatch to Reuters.
The dispatch says the number of ships available is limited, and that it will be impossible for more than 20,000 to embark. The first boat-load of refugees have arrived at Constantinople, but were not permitted to land as housing facilities are limited and food is scarce. Their plight is declared to be very grave.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 13.—A strong offensive by Polish troops was begun Wednesday on the northeast Lithuanian front, according to a Kovno dis-fighting the towns of Smotry and Turmont were occupied by the attacking forces the report says.

GENEVA, Nov. 13.—Germany will

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Federal Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis Friday accepted the "chairmanship" of professional baseball after it had been tendered him by unanimous vote of the 16 major league clubs, and thereby became the first court of appeal in all matters of administration which may come up between the National and American leagues and any minor leagues which voluntarily join in the proposed reorganization of baseball.

Judge Landis was hearing a case in which $15,000 bribery in connection with an income tax was charged when a committee of eight club owners called on him. As the magnates filed into the court room, held in his chambers, the judge sharply banged his gavel and ordered them to make less noise.
When informed of their mission, he had them escorted to his chambers, where they were kept in waiting for 35 minutes, before the judge would listen to the offer which increased his annual salary from $7,500 a year to $50,000.

Peace set led over professional baseball when the opposing factions in the reorganization of the game reached an agreement on every point at issue and thus ended a war which for five days apparently had disrupted both major leagues.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Congress at the opening session, will be urged by the House committee on Immigration to restrict admission of aliens to this country to close blood relatives of naturalized citizens, Representative Johnson of Washington, chairman of the committee said today.

The committee, he added, will begin Monday to prepare recommendations for the restriction of immigration

RENEW YOUR RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP NOW

President Wilson Says:---

The American Red Cross deserves a hearty response to its fourth invitation to annual membership, which will be issued during the fortnight beginning November 11, Armistice Day. During the Red Cross Roll Call is a fitting season to take counsel with our inner selves and to reaffirm allegiance to practical patriotism and practical humanitarianism.

President-elect Harding Says:---

It would be peculiarly a misfortune, if the Red Cross, with its magnificent organization and splendid purpose of useful achievement should lose any measure of its efficiency because the special interest and enthusiasm of war-time has ceased. Your organization has been built to serve humanity and humanity needs its service in peace, just as it did in war.

FAST AND FURIOUS BOUTS AT SLAVISH HALL MONDAY NIGHT ASSURANCE OF THE PROMOTER

Wimler and Ryan in Pink of Condition For Main Battle.

CARTER AND CARVER, ALSO

Indications point to a representative gathering of the most prominent business men and merchants, not only of the city, but of nearby at the ringside Monday night at Slavish hall for the boxing show. Many are anxious to see Tommy Ryan, fast and aggressive fighter of McKeesport, pit his skill against the slim bang style of Chalkley Winter of Pittsburgh. Those boys meet in the star bout of 10 rounds. Each has a forfeit posted that he will weigh 120 pounds at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the bout.

Reports from the training camp are that they are in the required weight, in perfect condition, ready to put up the "best" battle of their careers. Ryan, the "battler of champions," is not making any predictions as to the outcome of the bout, but his manager has informed officials of the Fayette A. C., under whose auspices the bout will be held, that Tommy will carry the fight to Wimler at the sound of the first fog.

Mrs. Messago Entertains.
Mrs. John Messago of South Chestnut street entertained the clerks of Bender's store at her home on Thursday evening. The guests were Mrs. C. M. Uber, Mrs. Lillian Kelly, Misses Edra Sinkula, Ivaline Shively, Essie Bessart and Julia Borecky and John Franey and William Messago. Mrs. Messago before her marriage was Miss Rebecca Herzog of the Bendinier's sales force.

Literary Society Programs.

The literary sodalies of the Scottsdale high school held the first regular meetings yesterday.

The Castilian society, under the supervision of Miss Herbert, rendered the following program: Roll call; answered by quotations bearing on Armistice Day; address, Donald Stoner; sketch of General Pershing, Helen Whaley; "Conditions in Vienna," Florence Kulin; "Red Cross Work in America," Eleanor Yather; "The American Boy as Soldier," Fred Lester; oration, "Armistice Day," Elmer Stevenson; reading, Margaret Porter; sketch, paper, Agnes Cafferty; songs, solo.

The Cavalier Society was under the direction of Miss Rittenhouse. Roll call, answered by quotations from Emerson; address by the president; debate, "Resolved: That Public Ownership is Better Than Private Ownership," affirmative, Henrietta Ringer and A. J. Stoner, and negative, Margaret Eckman and Gena Rush; talk, "Customs of America," Joannette Fink; reading, Terence Loncke; talk, "Customs of France," Lorraine Newcomer; short story, "O'Henry," Margaret Kelly.

In Wimler Ryan will be facing a boy who is at present at the top of his form. It is doubtful if Chalkley has been in any better condition during his entire career as a fighter. Wimler is being besieged with offers from the four corners throughout the country. The matchmakers evidently realize that Chalkley is "all there." This was brought about through his wonderful battle with Patsy Scanlon recently.

Another bout that will keep the fans on their toes will be that between Billy Carter of this city and Eddie Carver, the clever boxer from Pittsburgh. This bout promises to be full of thrill with plenty of action every minute.

Johnny Potock of Dawson and Young Piazza of Pittsburgh will open the show at 8:30, sharp, with a six-round match that should put the fans in good humor for the other two star encounters. Eddie Kennedy of Pittsburgh will referee, assuring fast and clean boxing throughout.

Tickets are now on sale at various places in the city and at Scottsdale. Those who have not secured their pastboards should do so immediately as the management will collect the tickets at 5 o'clock sharp on Monday, so that those unsold can be disposed of at the hall.

The hall will be heated and comfortable for the bouts, irrespective of how cold the weather gets.

Healthfully Warms All Rooms from One Register

The simplicity and dispatch with which the Round Oak Pipeless Furnace is installed commend it to many. The rapidity with which, into all rooms, it warms any desired degree of pleasantly humidified warmth on a chill morning, and the surety with which it preserves an even temperature until bedtime, quickly establish it in the esteem of a family.

Some marvel that this is possible from a single register. But the millions who know of the Round Oak Folks and their generations of reputation for unusual accomplishments, accept this fact with little surprise.

ROUND OAK PIPELESS FURNACE

Burns any kind of fuel. See our display—examine the heavy over-size parts and patented features. We expect to see prices advance any day. Prompt inspection advised. Convenient terms, if desired.

Heat Your Home Like the Sun Heats the Earth

Warm air rises and cold air falls—this is nature's law of air circulation. Utilizing this law, the Round Oak through one register, heats the entire home, large or small, to 70 degrees in zero weather. This is backed up by a MONEY BACK WRITTEN GUARANTEE.

Insist on the ROUND OAK AS THEY ARE THE BEST AND THE BEST IS NONE TOO GOOD FOR ANY OF US.

GIRL BURNED MAKING BREAD

Drew Coat from Oven and Clothing Ignites When She Kneads Among Them Unknowingly; Sum of $2,500 Raised Toward Memorial Hospital.

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, Nov. 13.—Andy Malek, 38 years old, a Pole from Udell, was struck with an automobile near his home there and suffered a depressed fracture of the skull. Dr. G. T. McNish performed an operation at the Memorial hospital and lifted the depression.

Burned in Casual manner.

Mary Gleyar, 14 years old, of Hecla No. 3, was brought to the Memorial hospital suffering from severe burns about the body. Mary, who was taking bread outdoor even in her home, had drawn the rolls from the oven and did not get them under the oven, and in kneeling down to put the bread into the oven her clothing ignited. She was improving nicely yesterday.

Fortnightly Club Meets.

Ats. H. H. Dolan, chairman of the members of the Fortnightly club at her home in the Harrison apartments, Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer, was studied. Cadman was a grandson of Dr. Samuel Wakefield of Mount Pleasant.

The committee in charge of the drive for hospital funds met on Tuesday evening at the office of the chairman, M. A. King, to arrange to raise the balance of the $10,000 that is needed for the hospital. Already $2,500 had been secured.

YEARS OF STOMACH AND BOWEL TROUBLE

Had Three Operations and Was At Rut Dawn. Newspaper Ad
Gulped Her Back to Health.

I suffered from stomach and bowel trouble in my voice for a year. I went through three operations and doctor'd all the time, but found nothing that would do me any good.

One day, while I was advertising in the daily paper, I decided to try it. The first time never relieved me, and I am now on the fourth, fifth and even sixth operation. I am so weak that has done me so much good.

I am feeling better than I ever did since my operation. I am training in body and health rapidly. I now weigh 133 lbs. The doctor says I am 100% today. $850.00. (Continued on page 10.)

Thousands of sufferers from either of the above afflictions and bowel trouble have found that Vicks VapoRub give prompt relief and real lasting benefit.

Mike's Liniment is a popular nostrum and a great favorite. It is very healthy, natural bowel action, can't carry with all need of pills and drugs. It promotes appetite and aids in the digestive system, in alone to stimulate food. As a builder of health and strength, Mike's Liniment is strongly recommended to those who are weak and who are recovering from colds and rheumatism, and to those who are weak and suffering from the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation may promptly be relieved.

SAW MILL MAN FINED

Forest Blaze Starting from Mt. Barnes Over 2,000 Acres of Land.

Special to The Courier.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 12.—In settlement of a claim against him for allowing a forest fire to start from his saw mill, John J. Naugle of Ligonier has paid the state $100, according to an information sent to the department of forestry by District Forester V. M. Beards of Ligonier.

The fire burned over about 3,000 acres before it was put out.

PUBLISH MY LETTER

Says Mrs. Overstein, So Other Suffering Women May Learn How to Get Well.

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered for four years with pain in my sides, hips and legs and a terrible headache. I had to lay my head on a chair all day and night. I was treated by many physicians but they did not help me. I read in one of your books where others had been helped and I wrote to Lydia E. Pincham's Vegetable Compound Co. and they gave me permission to publish my letter in other women who suffer may learn how to get well."—Mrs. Ida Overstein, 909 S. Marshall Ave., Chicago, Ill.

This good old-fashioned remedy is made from nutritive roots and seeds and contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pincham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pincham's Medicine Co. (expeditious). Two Mass. for a letter and a reply will be sent you and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and a colonel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets.

They cause the bowels and liver to act unnaturally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"— be it from calomel, or any other such medicine—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards'

Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15¢ and 30¢.

SATURDAY EVENING, NOV. 13, 1920

IN WHICH DIRECTION—BACKWARD OR FORWARD?

Two incidents have recently occurred in Connellsville which made it pertinent times and necessary to declare the serious and serious fact that unless we rally and apply to city and community upbuilding, advancement and growth, the spirit of cooperation and mutual helpfulness we exemplify, is irreversable.

Success we exemplify, in such comprehensive success during the war, Connellsville as a commercial and industrial center, will GO BACK INSTEAD OF FORWARD!

Expressed differently and more pointedly, but without in any wise impugning the truth of the statement it can be said

It is up to the citizens to pull together in their work of years pulled apart.

Again in the forceful but inelegant language of the day, the admonition may be given this time

Stop knocking, get busy building.

The first of the incidents to which reference is made is the arrival here of the first completion of the Pu-agon Motor Car Company as the forerunner of a new opportunity for the people of Connellsville to show that they are truly interested and willing to take part in or to help boost every that will fit the possibilities of increasing the industrial or commercial importance of the city, and to its reputation as a place where they can put their talents multiplying the chance of opportunity to young men to secure profitable employment at home instead of having to look afar and to show to the entire at large that we have a town fit for anyone that is a forward-looking city.

The second of the incidents was the announcement that the Waller Lading Company is to complete its plant to a neighboring state and that it will move to South Connellsville of a number of estimable and worthy citizens and in fact which was virtually born here and which all claimed a position where exports lay beyond the willfulness of the community to provide made it desirable as well as necessary to seek a location in the people are where are able to their opportunities and more to prove to the publics of this kind that we

These wide contrasting incidents bring into prominent public notice two facts. In one in which we have permitted the industry to Connellsville and vicinity to be restricted in number largely because we have failed in realizing that pulling together is quite the best policy in an attempt to safeguarding and prospering our individual needs and enterprise.

The second of the instances puts us to the test to show whether we can or will benefit by the loss of the loss of an industry. Whether we can or will revive in a former city emergency that put to the ground and interested corporation and city located which enabled the broadest of our workers to do great things in their efforts and whether we will suffice in our individual pride in this point.

We have well taken note, for a couple of days and a week divisions in broadening our conception of our duties as citizens of a progressive city so as to embrace all its people and their collective welfare within the purview of the things we should encourage boost and support as a means of promoting the prosperity of Connellsville and the material welfare of its citizens themselves included. Whether we will concede the fact over thoughtful business man and citizen know that if Connellsville does not move forward in its expansion, addition and diversification of its industries it will go backward.

Building upon which has passed and is declining as a supporting action well under way Connellsville must find or develop not only a variety of enterprises to take the place of coke making. The relatively slight increase in population during the last ten years has shown that we have not kept pace with the growth of the town which have made us a picture smaller than we to before individual cities.

We have the retention and enlargement of our present industries and the addition of new ones which is there in or about Connellsville to maintain our business at its present volume much less interest in communiting with the importance of our advantages and location.

What we must do to build more.

The Dark Mirror

BY
LOUIS JOSEPH YANCE
Author of "The False Faces,"
"The Lone Wolf," Etc.
Illustrated by Irvin Myers
(Copyright 1920 by the Author)

"Is she at the Walpole now?"
"Nope—she flew the coop with the fire-completed gun about ten this morning. I called her home with a towline, got a tap-chantree and a skirt that looked like a last's-mail. The dark bird hopped over party into the car, and the tap had her gold' before the porter can slip his tip."

Fosdick frowned thoughtfully for a moment. "Did you call up the marriage license bureau?"

"Uh-uh, but nobody like them parties has applied there today for permission to hitch. If they shows up later, one of the clerks' is a friend of mine, he'll glimme a go."

"Where do people go, as a rule, when they want to marry in a hurry and without publicity?"

"Jersey City, genly," sometimes Starford, Conn."

"Wish you'd get in touch with both places."

"Sure."

Fosdick hesitated then reminded himself of other appointments.

"I presume there's nothing more."

"None, only—yanno that Carnahan?"

"Did you find him, too?"

"Yeah," said Mr. Andrews placidly—"in the morgue. He kicked off in a ten-men fire last night. A guy I know down to please headquarters glomme the news. It seems Carnahan and Bi-elsky—Leo the Bloody, who shot up a harness bull and a couple plainclothes at Ristori's a while ago, yanno—anyway he got the credit for all of the shootin'; but it seems somebody slipped headquarters the tip it was Carnahan bumped off the detective and headquarters' first letter on it knew hopin' Carnahan'd maybe be it was all right to cover up the air and do it . . . Well, anyway: them two is lyin' up in a dat in one of them ten-men. Bielsky just manages to get out before the staircase caves and is spotted and pinched when he tries to snout through the fire lines. He says Carnahan was slow gettin' to the stairs, account of him bein' stewed, and this mornin' they takes Leo to the morgue and shows him the stiff they'd dig outa the ruins and he identifies one as Carnahan."

"But are the police satisfied with his identification? I understand the members of these gangs are rather loyal to one another. Bielsky may have lied to give Carnahan another chance."

"Oh, I dunno. I guess headquarters must've figured it was Carnahan before they called on Leo. Only my friend says she finds this body in the ruins of the ten-men fire. There were the first stairs, instead of the hours where those two birds was hidin'. But that's easy explained if Carnahan tried to get away across the roofs. Yanno them old-law ten-men: fire-traps, that's all. And that gae last night helped a lot . . ."

II. RESIGNATION.

When he called, late in the afternoon, through some blessed accident Fosdick found Priscilla alone, and she had a brave smile of welcome for him, although he fancied it a trifle forced;

for the effort she was making to keep a stiff upper lip seemed only too apparent to his soliciting regard.

"Philip, I do believe you're never on time!"

"Seldom if ever," he asserted solemnly. "One must sport a professional mannerism or two, you know, to hold the confidence of one's clientele, if one simply wants to be a bore or to be a sight for stock."

"I almost think," she said, "I'd prefer the hard, plus punctuality, this afternoon at least. Next to sitting through a musical comedy, I don't know anything more everlasting than waiting for the doctor's call."

"I'm sorry, 'Cilla," he protested con-tritely. "I really was more keen to get here than you could possibly have been to see me."

"Don't be too sure!" Philip found something almost pathetic in this ful-tive flush of her rare coquetry. "I was lonely, waiting, with no company but my thoughts."

"But not unhappy?"

"Nope," she admitted dubiously siv-ing a blue tea—"nor happy, either; rather, I should say resigned. You see, Philip, they—they're married."

"How do you know?"

She shook her head. "I can't tell you but I do. It was just before noon. I was in my room, alone, wondering—trying to think things out some way. And suddenly—the res is no explaining—I knew it had happened.
It was nothing like a dream. I haven't the remotest idea how or where they were married. I only know they were."

He studied her closely, detecting no trace of hysteria in her manner. There were melancholy shadows beneath her eyes—but the eyes themselves were calm, clear and direct.

"Tell me as neatly as you can . . ."
She overcame a reluctance. "I slept well enough, after you left last night, heavily but without dreams. I was conscious, a tension of nerves, as if I was consciously waiting for something to happen. It got worse as the morning wore on, though I fought it as hard as I knew how, and I had a feeling of suppressed excitement, too. And then —well, I say—about noon, the tension snapped. Without the least warning it was gone, there was nothing left, just emptiness—you know—desolation.

And after a little time on that, peace of a sort: the feeling one has when something terribly important that's been long time hanging fire is at last settled, even if it's settled disappoint-ingly. So I knew—the long suspense of a tremor crept into her voice—"I was over and done with, they were married, the thing was finished."

"Weren't you glad?"
"Then I don't think you ought to complain if I run over routine investigation work to a private detective, a man of absolute discretion who is not in the police department, who hasn't even heard of you. Who thinks I'm interested in this Leona for reasons privately personal to myself."

"I don't complain, Philip. I was surprised, and at first I didn't understand.
You see—I presume I'm too much Leonora or she's too much me—but I can't somehow help sharing her feelings. She was wretchedly afraid the police might send Rod to the electric chair, on information they'd got through her."

"They'll never do that now," Philip interrupted. "Carnahan is dead."

"They'll Never Do That Now," Philip
Interrupted. "Carnahan is Dead."

She uttered a little cry, something between pity and thanksgiving, and sank back, staring. "Yo—His body was found in the ruins of the tenement house this morning. Bielsky, who was arrested fleeing the flames, identified the remains . . . So that fear passes, 'Cilla."

She rested her head wearily against the back of the chair and shut her eyes. "So that fear passes," she repeated in a whisper. A little silver ran over her body. "I can't think it's wrong or me to be glad . . ."

"It isn't. It's only human."

"But a death so frightful—!"

"Don't think about that, think how good it is that you—that Leonora need no longer fear death in every turning."

"Do you suppose she knows?"

"It's in all the evening papers. She must learn of it sooner or later, where-ever she is."

"Then—then your man didn't find out where they were from the Walpole?"

"No. But the presumption is, they want either to Jersey or Connecticut to get married, as people do when they want to avoid publicity. I fancy they'd do that, to leave no clue for Carnahan —nor knowing there was no more necessity."

MOTHER OMORI.

"I've got news," Fosdick offered.
Priscilla looked up sharply, uttering a knitting brow. "Though I imagine from what you've told me, it will seem less news than confirmation—in a way."

He was quick to satisfy her moment of impatience: "There's every reason to believe Leonora spent last night, after the fire, at the Walpole, and Mario called for her there this morning, about ten o'clock, with a motorcar. He had a Japanese chauffeur and another woman with him, presumably a maid. Apparently the man has means of his own."

"To him, I think. But how do you know all this?"

"I had a man, a private detective, make the rounds of the hotels, first thing this morning—on the off-chance that Mario had noted on his suggestion, if you remembered it correctly, of putting Leonora up for the night at the best and quietest place in town."

"You employed a detective, Philip?
After your promise?"

"Hold on, 'Cilla. I promised I wouldn't go near police headquarters or let the truth leak out about what happened at Ristori's. And I was hotter than my word. In the beginning I thought for you, it's my own—saying the best part of three days, I was sleeping around the lower East Side in a sleep-shop suit, unshaven, my hair in mourning, till I got what I was after,
established indisputably the fact that yippie dreams were true telepathic visions — clairvoyant—whatever you can't call them—anything but hallucinations of a disordered mind. More than that, I proved that Leonora was as real a creature as you are, not a sort of secondary personality you'd been projecting more or less involuntarily into phases of life utterly outside your comprehension and experience."

"I know, Philip." She leaned forward to touch his hand in gratitude.
"Don't think me unappreciative. If

visions — clairvoyant—whatever you
can't call them—anything but hallucinations of a disordered mind. More than that, I proved that Leonora was
as real a creature as you are, not a sort of secondary personality you'd
been projecting more or less involuntarily into phases of life utterly outside your comprehension and experience."

"I know, Philip." She leaned forward to touch his hand in gratitude.
"Don't think me unappreciative. If

"I had a man, a private detective,
make the rounds of the hotels, first
thing this morning—on the off-chance
that Mario had noted on his suggestion,
if you remembered it correctly, of putting Leonora up for the night at the best and quietest place in town."

"You employed a detective, Philip?
After your promise?"

"Hold on, 'Cilla. I promised I wouldn't go near police headquarters
or let the truth leak out about what happened at Ristori's. And I was hotter than my word. In the beginning I thought for you, it's my own—saying
the best part of three days, I was sleeping around the lower East Side in a sleep-
shop suit, unshaven, my hair in mourning, till I got what I was after,
established indisputably the fact that
yippie dreams were true telepathic

Speaking of Beavers Hats at $7.95

—a patron said the other day—

"WHAT is the use to buy beaver hats? I see so much better than some I saw at stores. Just think I can buy the hat some stockings from the different stores."

They are lovely beavers we are proud to be able to sell them at
